JIM JEFFRIES' GREATEST RING BATTLES==NO. 10

What I'd Saw at the Second Jeffries-Corbett Fight in San Francisco

When you know a boy you probably played a punch known as "The King of the Ring." You get up on a rock and make about every other man try to climb on it. This was the kind of a game that Jim Jeffries played with the heavyweights of the world in the first year or so after he had won the championship.

Jim Corbett, who had called the champion all over Europe for twenty-three months, began to get into the prints in a most modest fashion. He maintained that he had fought the champion in the first round and that Jeffries had been so badly beaten that he was still comatose. Corbett stated that he had pointed out to Jeffries that he was a coward and that he was afraid to fight him. Jeffries, who was a very brave man, said that he was not afraid of Corbett and that he was ready to fight him at any time and at any place. He said that he was not afraid of Corbett and that he was ready to fight him at any time and at any place.

in simple time and was able to hold it until the bell rang.

One of Jeff's three had been torn in the first round, and it required more than the regular time of the fight to get it back. This gave Corbett more time to use his power and he was able to get into the ring. Jeffries, who was a very brave man, said that he was not afraid of Corbett and that he was ready to fight him at any time and at any place.

in the eighth, but a heavy blow to the head had been dealt him by the first round. Jeffries, who was a very brave man, said that he was not afraid of Corbett and that he was ready to fight him at any time and at any place.

Police Negligence

Amazing Details of the Work of the Gang of Bunco-Swindlers Right Under the Noses of O'Meara and His Officials Prove Utter Failure of Police System, and O'Meara's Incompetence as Well

The amazing revelations of the gang of bunco-steers and swindlers that have made their headquarters in Boston for at least five years, and perhaps ten, and the brazen manner in which they defied their victims out of huge sums of money, have caused a sensation not only in Boston but throughout the entire country.

Not in years—if ever before—have there been such startling disclosures. Never before has a gang of swindlers been permitted to continue their depredations day and night without let or hindrance by the police.

For, of course, some of the 1,500 policemen in Boston MUST HAVE KNOWN that these swindlers had their headquarters in a dozen of the leading down-town hotels and were carrying on their swindling trade not only in low places, in saloons and dives, but were actually in communication with physicians, financiers, directors of corporations, dentists, politicians—in fact, men in EVERY WALK OF LIFE.

THE TOTAL SUM OF MONEY realized by these men within the last few years is placed at not less than $700,000, and perhaps twice as much. This estimate of $700,000 is given by a State street financial daily newspaper that has opportunities to investigate the operations of the gang among financial institutions.

It has been known to the public—for the newspapers have published the facts broadcast—for at least two weeks that these swindlers had been operating in Boston, and yet the police department has NOT MADE ONE SINGLE EFFORT to apprehend any of the scoundrels or to help in any way in prosecuting them.

A very green reporter asked Commissioner O'Meara the other day what he had to say about the gang and their operations. A wise and seasoned reporter would have no other talking to O'Meara at all, but this green reporter, foolishly feeling that he ought to GO TO THE HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT for information, received from O'Meara this choice reply:

"I am not interested."

It will be recalled when serious charges were made against the violation of the licensing law by notorious dives and saloons in Boston that O'Meara flippantly turned the whole matter aside by remarking:

"It is a routine matter."

It will also be recalled that when specific allegations were made of the white slave traffic in Boston, not only by the Watch and Ward Society but by other reputable bodies, O'Meara became very peevish and wrote a long letter to his favorite newspaper in which he said the white slave traffic in Boston did not exist at all and added:

"It is only casual."

How much longer are the people of Boston going to permit the mismanagement of police affairs to continue? If the operations of a gang of bunco-swindlers within a few feet of O'Meara's private office and under the very nose of Chief Watts is NOT INTERESTING, who somebody tell a patient public what is INTERESTING to them in a criminal way?

District Attorney Pelletier, the one official in Suffolk County apparently that has personal force enough to do things, is bringing the whole matter of the bunco-swindling gang before the grand jury.

Why are the police not active? Why does not Mr. Pelletier take O'Meara and Pierce and Watts before the grand jury and COMPEL THEM TO EXPLAIN why they permitted this condition of affairs to go on in Boston without let or hindrance?

Mr. Pelletier has THE POWER to make O'Meara FEEL interested in THE PERFORMANCE OF HIS DUTY, if he so desires. O'Meara may feel he is superior to the law of the State and can do as he pleases, because he is an appointee of the "Machine," but Mr. Pelletier, as the District Attorney of Suffolk County, is more powerful than the entire Republican "Machine," and he can COMPEL O'Meara to take an INTEREST in criminal matters in Boston and make police officials do their duty.

And Mr. Pelletier can go still further. HE CAN GET RID OF O'Meara as Police Commissioner at any time that he so desires by investigating all the evidence that is now being laid before him PROVING O'Meara's incompetence and unfitness to hold office.

If any reader of this newspaper thinks for one instant that the articles published from time to time in the American criticising the police department of Boston are other than in the interest of the public and are not perfectly fair in every way, we ask them to read an article published in the March issue of the Metropolitan Magazine of New York, which takes up the entire police question of Boston and O'Meara and his System and draws the strongest indictment yet presented against the commissioner and the entire police force.

Certainly a monthly magazine published in New York by Melville E. Stone, Jr., son of the general manager of the Associated Press, the greatest news-gathering organization in the world, an organization that serves newspapers in every city with news, cannot be said to be prejudiced.

The American will publish some of this matter in its Sunday issue. It will be worth reading.

The writer of the Metropolitan article declares that "the Boston police do not SERVE the city. BUT RULE IT ACCORDING TO OUTWORN AND INHUMAN CUSTOMS. The rolling up of an enormous and disproportionate total of arrests, mostly petty, is a sign of BAD AND UNCIVILIZED POLICE WORK."

A LITTLE STORY OF LINCOLN'S KINDNESS

Written for the Boston American

By Dr. C. H. Parkhurst

Copyright, 1910, by American Journal Examiner

It is a little story of Lincoln's kindness.

As contrasted with the prepossessions of doubt.

That which follows here is written out of respect to other readers of the Boston American, rather than from our regard to our correspondent, for he has forfeited all claim to consideration by the amount of charge, utterly unwarranted by facts, that this newspaper is now making in its view to be likely to admit in its columns are opinions that are not four-square with the American's own philosophy and creed—a way of pronouncing himself that is un-American, dishonest and unbecomingly can be gathered from a single paragraph.

"Throughout the Doctor's article his remarks are to imply that it is better that he be the chief factor in contributing to the welfare of civilization, and that doubt is a damaging and detrimental enemy to progress, indulged in by only cattle-brained, knock-kneed philosophers."

Doubt Squats, but Belief Is Alert; It Gets Up and Does Things

That is a fair statement of the case, for the last half dozen weeks. The cartoonist that he loads into his rifle is not, who, he says, discovered America not because of any belief that he had, but he came he doubted that the world was flat.

But any man whose mind thinks rather than doubts knows that doubt is a matter of pure imagination, and nothing more. It is a condition of denial. The mere doubt that the world was flat would never have taken Columbus to Palos or anywhere else. He went to Palos and crossed the Atlantic because of his belief in the existence of a Western Continent. There was nothing negative about it, but a vast amount of what was solidly positive.

Doubt is logical and squats on its haunches, belief is alert and gets up and goes. As to Lincoln being a doubter, as our correspondent intimates, he was one of the most tremendous believers of the last century and he was martyred for his faith in belief in the rights of his country, and in man, and in human rights. Belief, and in man, was intense to the point of passion.

That a man stricken with the proleptic of doubt should have taken up this country, begged it in his bosom, and carried it through from '61 to '65, is an absurdity that our correspondent will not fail to find if he expects to understand history or to do anything himself that will be worthy of doubt.
